

PRISONERS' INVENTIONS

Two years ago Temporary Services invited Angelo, an incarcerated artist, to write and illustrate a booklet about the ingenious, practical, and sometimes bizarre things he has seen prisoners make.

Angelo generated more than 100 pages of drawings and text—representing 78 different inventions or skills. The collection offers a glimpse into the social environment of prison, where inventiveness and ingenuity are needed to satisfy even the most basic human desires.

Angelo's texts and drawings will show you how to improvise a wake-up alarm, grill a cheese sandwich in a locker, make an immersion heater from razor blades and popsicle sticks, use a toilet to chill a soda or take a hot bath, and complete—with severely limited resources—many other tasks we on the outside take for granted.
